Participate In State Music Festival

Fifty-one students from The Allegro Music Studio, piano class of Mrs. J. Franklin Vaughan entered the State Music Festival at Lynchburg College as a part of the Virginia Federation of Music Clubs. Each entry was judged and graded individually and received awards according to their grades. It is a policy of the Federation not to publish individual grades, however, let it be stated that most honorable grades were received by the following entries and many will receive gold cups next year for performances superior in quality. The gold cups are awarded when a number of points have been earned over a three or more year period of time. Students entering were: Gail Farrar, Cynthia Woodson, Donna Woodson, Angela Woodson, Teresa Harris, Cindy Harris, James Beaty, Carole Beaty, Pam Dodd, Lynn Dodd, Paula Lea, Sharon Bryant, Garlene Gaines, Debbie Campbell, Cindy Howard, Vicky Howard, Julie Williams, Diana Short, Vanessa Smith, Bonna Kaye Layne, Shelby Dunnam, Rebecca Loflin, Polly Carter, Susan Godsey, Jennifer Brown, Alice Angel, Elizabeth Angel, Katy Lowry, Cheryl Motley, Vicky Motley, Ruth Ann Brackin, Anne Martin, John Randall Caldwell, Robin Blanks, Brenda Thompson, Sharee Covington, Nadine Bugg, Cindy Morris, LaTrelle Ewers, Karl Ewers, Elizabeth Ann Caldwell, Carol Carson, Susan Rosser, Sandy Jamerson, Linda Torrence and Melinda Davis and Johnny Campbell.

These students and others in the class are now preparing for the National Guild Piano Auditions sponsored by the American College of Musicians. Because of student performances, Mrs. Vaughan was placed on the National Honor Roll of Guild Teachers of the American College of Musicians in May of 1972 following the annual auditions of students.

Prohibited Grazing Period Begins Soon

Producers who chose wheat and feed grain program plans that included set-aside acreage are being reminded that the five-month period during which grazing of set-aside is prohibited begins may 1.

This limitation on the use of set-aside acreage applies to producers who want to earn the full program payment, said James R. Ford, Jr., chairman the Appomattox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. Other producers who also chose the set-aside options may elect to graze the acreage throughout the year, or to cut hay or silage from it, provided they give advance noticed to the SSCS county office. They also will forfeit a part of their program payment.

For producers who want to earn the full payment, the period when the set-aside may not be grazed extends through Sept. 30. No crop, forage or otherwise, may be harvested from set - aside acreage throughout the year unless a producer has signed up for a permitted alternate crop on set-aside.

The decision to permit year-round grazing and cutting of conserving crops for forage from set -aside - when advance notice is given - is new in this year's wheat and feed grain programs. It is intended to help alleviate the livestock feed situation by making more acreage available for grazing and forage for the increased livestock numbers needed to meet consumer demand for red meat.

SIGN VANDALISM caused these highway markers to be replaced long before it should have been necessary. Frank Isbell, a district traffic engineer for the Virginia Department of Highways, shows the kind of sign mistreatment that costs the taxpayers more than half a million dollars a year, plus some danger where signs are knocked down or made unreadable.

Vandals and Litter Costly To Appomattox County

Vandals last year cost the taxpayers who finance Virginia's highways more than half a million dollars.

With gunshots, paint, thrown bottles, political stickers pasted by overly enthusiastic campaign workers, and other mischief vandalism to the state's official road signs totaled $539,606.

In Appomattox County damage to primary roads totaled $1,650.00, damage to secondary roads totaled $450.00; making the total damage in our county $2,100.00.

Litter along Virginia's roads, always an ugly nuisance and sometimes a safety hazard, became a million-dollar problem last year, the State Department of Highways said April 5th.

In Appomattox County litter clean-up expenditures on primary roads amounted to $4,130.87, expenditures on secondary roads amounted to $1,017.14; making the total litter clean-up expenditures for our county $5,148.01 for the past year.

The Banks

American banks spend countless millions advertising their services to the public. That is, of course, the American system.

Most banks charge about the same rate of interest; it takes no genius to obtain money at five or six per cent and loan it at seven or eight. Thus banks almost automatically make money. But some make more than others.

And many are going in for all kinds of diversified services. At the present rate of change, soon one will be able to order a hamburger and shake at the cashier's window.
